WELCOME TO THE NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE

WHERE DO YOU
WANT TO STUDY
NEXT YEAR?

Through the National Student Exchange you can study for a single term or an academic year at another campus in the United States, Canada, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. While on exchange, you will pay your normal tuition to your home campus or pay the in-state or in-province tuition to your host college or university.

NSE participation will be one of the most significant experiences of your undergraduate education. The changes seen in attitudes, understanding of other people in other settings, flexibility, maturity, self-confidence, and decision-making are similar to the experiences of students who study internationally. Like study abroad, volunteerism, internships, service learning and research, NSE is an enhancement of your undergraduate program, demonstrating to graduate schools and future employers that you possess the flexibility to plan, follow-through and go beyond the expected.

WHY EXCHANGE?

- ▶ Enrich your personal and educational experiences
- ▶ Become more independent and resourceful
- ▶ Immerse yourself in a different environment
- ▶ Take courses not available on your campus
- ▶ Acquire life skills
- ▶ Explore new areas of study
- ▶ Break out of your comfort zone
- ▶ Search for graduate schools or future employment
- ▶ Experience life from a different point of view

About This Guide

Although the publisher has made every reasonable effort to obtain factual accuracy for information provided herein by NSE member campuses, no responsibility is assumed for editorial or content errors. The publisher presents information which most accurately describes the program and colleges and universities that hold membership in the National Student Exchange. The information is informative in nature and does not constitute a contract with the National Student Exchange or its member institutions. Information reflects conditions at the time of printing and may be amended at any time without notice.

Getting Started

- Read this publication for information on eligibility; application policies, procedures and considerations; and what will be expected of you from the time of application through return to your home campus.
- Discuss NSE with your home campus NSE coordinator, your primary contact for NSE participation.
- See the Exchange Site listing on page 5. As membership may change during the year, see nse.org/Students for up-to-date rosters.

- Review detailed information on member campuses at nse.org/Students/Campus Profiles.

- If your home and host campuses offer both of NSE's payment plans (A and B), consider which payment plan best meets your financial needs in conjunction with your anticipated financial aid and other financial resources.

Under Plan A, you will pay to your host campus the in-state (resident) or in-province tuition and fees directly to that campus.

Under Plan B, you will continue to pay your normal tuition and fees to your home university. If you currently pay non-resident tuition to your home campus, you should expect to continue to do so while on exchange.

- Meet with the NSE designated financial aid officer at your home campus to ascertain how NSE impacts federally-funded aid and the portability of other forms of aid.
- Talk to your academic advisor about how NSE can fit into your degree objectives and fulfillment of core, general education, and degree requirements.
- Discuss NSE with your parents, guardians and/or significant others.
- Consider the probabilities for being accepted at the campus(es) of interest. Universities that list themselves as “open” will accept all eligible applicants. Campuses that are “uneven” take a few more students than they send. Those listed as “even” will accept no more than the number of outgoing students. Campuses listed as “1:1” are the most restrictive and competitive since they accept first from campuses where they intend to place their own students.
- Read through Selecting a Campus on this page. Planning and flexibility are key to a successful exchange experience.
- Meet application deadlines established by your home campus coordinator.
- Following placement, meet the requirements and deadlines established by both your home and host campuses.
- Complete a written advising agreement.
- Pack your bags and get ready for an adventure that will change your life.

Selecting a Campus

You are encouraged to select colleges and universities that will provide learning opportunities to supplement and complement those of your home institution and assist you in reaching your educational goals. You are also encouraged to select campuses that will stimulate personal growth and development and allow you to experience the educational, geographic, and cultural diversity found among NSE's members. Carefully consider the answers to the following questions:

- Can my educational and personal goals and objectives be reasonably accomplished at the campus(es) I have selected?
- Do I have a flexible academic plan for exchange? (If you are dependent on a specific course or courses for graduation, exchange may not be appropriate. Registration in host campus courses is based on offerings and availability and cannot be guaranteed.)
- Has my academic advisor approved the appropriateness, timing, and campus(es) for my exchange?
- Does the host campus offer access to adequate courses for maintenance of academic progress?
- Will participating in the exchange delay graduation? If so, is that a problem?
- How will specialized or unique course offerings at the host campus enhance my academic program and career objectives?
- Am I proficient in the language of my prospective host campus? (Classes are taught in Spanish at all campuses in Puerto Rico. At most campuses in Quebec, classes are taught in French.)
- Is the host campus on the same academic calendar as my own? (If you are moving between quarter and semester calendars, planning for an academic year exchange should be strongly considered to maintain your academic progress.)
- Will the time I have allowed for exchange give me sufficient opportunity to become acquainted with my new academic environment as well as the region, its people, and its culture? (Whenever possible, NSE students are encouraged to exchange for a full academic year.)
- Are my financial resources sufficient to cover the cost of tuition and fees; room and meals; as well as transportation, travel, and other personal expenses at the host campus?

Exchange Site Information

Information contained on the "Exchange Sites" pages was provided by, and is the responsibility of, member institutions. Information on membership, payment plans and exchange with Canada may undergo change after this publication is printed. For current information, consult nse.org/Students/Campuses by Category/Member Snapshot. For complete information on each exchange site, go to nse.org/Students/Campus Profiles.

Exchange Terminology

PLAN A (Host Payment) - Under this plan, you pay the resident (in-state/in-province) tuition and fees directly to your host campus.

PLAN B (Home Payment) - Under this plan, you pay your normal tuition and fees to your home institution.
(Students who currently pay non-resident tuition at their home campus should expect to continue to do so while on exchange.)

PLAN A/B - The campus utilizes both payment plans.

1:1 - The host campus accepts students first from those campuses where it intends to place its own students.
Other students will be accepted as space permits.

EVEN - The host campus accepts no more than the number of students it intends to send on exchange.

UNEVEN - The host campus accepts a few more students than it intends to send on exchange.

OPEN - The host campus accepts all eligible applicants.

Q - Quarter Calendar (three terms make up an academic year); all other campuses use a Semester Calendar (two terms make up an academic year).

NH - No on-campus housing; all other members have on-campus housing although some may have limited access for NSE. See Campus Profiles for housing details.

F - French Speaking; fluency in French required. Classes are taught In French.

S - Spanish Speaking; fluency in Spanish required. Classes are taught in Spanish.

Disclaimer

The National Student Exchange links member colleges and universities in order for them to provide their students with opportunities for educational exchange to institutions of higher learning in the United States, its territories, and Canada. NSE does not make any warranties of any kind, expressed or implied, including perceived quality of the experiences or services rendered. NSE is not liable to the home institutions, host institutions, or exchange participants for benefits not provided by any of the parties involved. The National Student Exchange assumes no responsibility and disclaims any liability for any injury, loss, damage, or expense (personal, academic, financial, or other) suffered by students by reason of their participation in this program. Likewise, NSE does not accept responsibility for any loss, damage or interruption of classes suffered by a student as a result of weather, pandemics, strikes, or other causes beyond the control of its member universities.

Web Resources

The National Student Exchange Web site, nse.org, provides comprehensive information on member campuses. When you enter the site, there are two sections designed specifically for students. At the Campus Links section you can access a filter tool that will help you search for a campus that meets your own individual needs and interests. You can also connect to the home page of each NSE member. The Student section includes, but is not limited to, the information listed below.

Member Campus Profiles

Member Campus Profiles offer a convenient and comprehensive way to learn about each member university and its parameters for accepting exchange students. Each Profile contains a campus description, list of undergraduate majors open to NSE students, limitations, closed programs, financial aid information, campus diversity, and costs for tuition, fees, room and meals. Each Profile links to campus-specific information such as honors programs, residence assistant exchange, study abroad programs available to NSE students, special programs, campus catalog, campus detail information, Facebook, and Twitter. Pay careful attention to submission dates under the tabs for “Tuition/Fees” and “Room/Meals” to determine the timeliness of cost information.

Profiles are listed alphabetically by state/province and then alphabetically by institution. You can sort Profiles by payment Plan A (you pay the in-state/in-province tuition and fees of your host campus directly to your host campus) or payment Plan B (you pay your normal tuition and fees to your home campus). You can sort by campuses that send students to Canada, campuses that will receive students from Canada, campuses using a semester calendar and those using a quarter calendar.

Honors Exchange

This site, under the Exchange Options header, contains a list of campuses that make their honors courses and programs available to incoming students. The site includes program descriptions and the contact information for the honors dean or director.

Resident Assistant (RA) Exchange

Under the Exchange Options header, this site contains a list of campuses that accept incoming students as RAs. It includes participation guidelines, frequently asked questions for resident assistants, an RA application, and campus-specific program information. Also see page 17 of this publication for additional information.

Canadian Exchange

At this site, under the Exchange Options header, you will find a list of campuses that exchange between the United States and Canada. Procedures for exchange between the two countries are also detailed. See pages 25-27 of this publication for additional information.

Study Abroad Access

Some NSE members make participation in their study abroad programs available to incoming NSE students. At this site, under the Exchange Options header, there is a listing, by country, of the available study abroad sites and the sponsoring campus. Each site details costs for participation, language requirements, application deadlines, and contacts. Look at the section on International Guidelines for additional information. Also see pages 28-30 of this publication.

Special Programs

Under the Exchange Options header, this site contains a list of programs that range from as long as an academic year to as short as a few days. These programs may be offered during the academic year, in the summer, or between terms. All hold special interest and opportunity for students. They may include, but are not limited to, internships, research, service learning, field experience, and experiential learning.

Majors

Are you looking for a campus that offers courses in your major? See Click to Select a Major. This list of majors available to incoming NSE students can be sorted by major or by campus. Each Member Campus Profile contains a campus-specific list of available majors as well as limitations, if any, on their access.

Campus Budgets

Under the Resources header, you can access a summary of host campus costs (tuition for Plan A, housing, meals, books, supplies, personal expenses, and local transportation). More complete cost information is contained in individual Member Campus Profiles under the “Tuition/Fees” and “Room/Meals” tabs.

Campus Catalogs

Links to the catalogs of each NSE member are found under the Resources header. They are also accessed from individual Member Campus Profiles.

Campus Detail Information

Under the Resources header, you can find links to Campus Detail Information (CDI) for each member campus. The CDI includes information for incoming students including, but not limited to: enrollment, registration, billing, payment plans, deposits, housing, ADA resources, insurance, health records, and immunization requirements. The CDI can also be accessed from individual Member Campus Profiles.

Program Accreditation

NSE does not provide information on program-specific accreditation for academic programs offered by its members. Under the Resources header, there is a listing of web sites for national and professional program accreditation. Ask your academic advisor if enrollment in courses in an accredited host campus program is required.

Disclaimer

Information on the Member Campus Profiles as well as other information on the Student section of nse.org (including, but not limited to: payment plans, tuition, fees, room, meals, restrictions and limitations, majors, and special program options) is provided by, and is the sole responsibility of, the individual campus NSE representatives. The National Student Exchange assumes no responsibility and disclaims any liability for any injury, loss, damage, or expense (personal, academic, financial, or other) suffered by students by reason of incorrect or out-of-date information provided by NSE campus representatives. Information submitted by the respective campuses may be amended at any time and is subject to change without notice.

Eligibility

The National Student Exchange has established a basic framework of policies to which all member campuses and their students are subject. Within those policies, each campus determines its own procedures and timetable for the program. The campus, within the framework of NSE policy, also sets its own eligibility requirements and policies relating to student participation. Each campus has an NSE coordinator who is responsible for administering the NSE program at that campus. He or she is the best source for advice about the NSE program as it relates to your participation from your campus.

Eligibility

NSE participation is a privilege, not a right. Listed below are the minimum requirements for NSE participation. Home and host member campuses may place a higher gpa and/or additional requirements for exchange participation.

- You must have completed one term of full-time attendance (12 semester or 12 quarter hours) at an NSE member campus prior to submitting an application.
- You must have completed 24 semester hours or 36 quarter hours prior to your first term on exchange.
- If you previously participated in NSE for a cumulative total of an academic year, you are not eligible to participate again.

Eligibility requirements are applicable at the time of application and at the completion of the term immediately prior to your exchange.

- full-time (in-classroom) enrollment at your NSE home campus (Note: With the agreement of the home and host NSE coordinators, non-traditional, part-time students may be considered eligible for exchange.)
- minimum home campus cumulative gpa of 2.5 (4.0 scale) (Note: If your gpa for the term preceding exchange falls below a 2.5, your exchange may be subject to cancellation by your home coordinator even though your cumulative gpa is 2.5 or greater.)
- good academic standing as defined by your home campus
- no incomplete grades from previous terms
- no current or pending probationary status due to academic dishonesty or misconduct
- no outstanding financial obligations to your home campus
- no current or pending probationary or disciplinary action for violation of codes of student conduct
- no probation, parole, or any pending legal judgments (civil or criminal)

Your home campus NSE coordinator will make the final determination regarding your eligibility as well as select those applicants who will participate from your campus. Therefore, you must also meet any additional requirements or qualifications that may be imposed by your home campus.

Consult the Member Campus Profiles at the Student section of nse.org for campus-specific exchange limitations and restrictions that apply to incoming exchange students at the universities you are considering for exchange.

While on exchange, you are expected to maintain full-time (in the classroom) enrollment at your host campus and comply with all the rules and regulations (academic, codes of conduct, financial) of your host campus. See pages 23-24 (During Exchange) of this publication for additional information of what will be expected of you at your host campus.

Language Proficiency

With the exception of campuses in Puerto Rico and Quebec (see below), the language of instruction is English. Students for whom English is not their first language must demonstrate English language proficiency as part of the home campus application process. TOEFL, MELAB, IELTS, or other language tests may also be required by some host campuses.

The language of instruction at all NSE campuses in Puerto Rico is Spanish. Students must be able to read textbooks, understand lectures, take part in classroom discussions, do written work, and take examinations in Spanish. You must demonstrate Spanish proficiency as part of your home institution's application process.

The language of instruction at the Universite de Montreal, the Universite de Sherbrooke, and the Universite du Quebec a' Montreal, is French. Students must be able to read textbooks, understand lectures, take part in classroom discussions, do written work, and take examinations in French. You must demonstrate French proficiency as part of your home institution's application process. Following placement, you may also be requested to complete a language placement test.

Length of Exchange

Your eligible time for exchange may include exchange to more than one NSE campus, may cross two or more calendar years, or may involve exchange from more than one home institution. No matter the mix of home campuses, host campuses or time away, you may only participate in NSE for a cumulative total of time not to exceed one academic year (two semesters or three quarters) and a summer session. Single term exchanges in different academic years may incur additional NSE application fees.

The National Student Exchange is not a mechanism for transfer to your host campus nor can NSE be utilized to circumvent the host campus' requirement for establishing residency for tuition purposes should you decide to transfer.

Academic Considerations

Program Access

Not all academic programs at NSE member colleges and universities are available to NSE students. Also, some programs which are available may be highly competitive, limited at upper-division levels, or restricted in other ways. Some NSE campuses may limit the number of students accepted in these fields; some require a higher grade point average than required for general NSE participation; while others may require additional information (e.g., performing arts audition or studio art portfolio) for participation in the program. For information on closed, limited, and restricted courses and programs, look at the Member Campus Profile for the campus(es) of interest.

Program Accreditation

If you are enrolled in a program on your home campus that has program-specific accreditation, check with your home campus advisor to determine if your exchange work in your major must also be completed at a program that is similarly accredited. If so, it is your responsibility to identify an exchange site that meets the requirement. Your home campus academic department should have access to a list of colleges and universities with accredited programs in your major.

NSE does not provide information on program-specific accreditation for programs offered by its members. Under the Resources header of nse.org, there is a listing of web sites for national and professional program accreditation.

Course Availability

Even though a program or major is listed as offered by a member university, it does not mean that all courses are offered every term or every year. Course enrollment is based on offerings and availability and cannot be guaranteed. You must meet all course pre-requisites and/or co-requisites as required by your host campus. A flexible academic program is a must. If you are dependent upon a specific course or courses in order to maintain academic progress, you are advised to remain at your home campus.

Grades and Credits

Your home campus determines the manner in which host campus grades are recorded and courses distributed on your home campus transcript. Consult with your home campus NSE coordinator for details of the policy for your campus. Prior to exchange you must develop a written advising agreement with the assistance of your academic advisor and your home NSE coordinator in order to identify how courses satisfactorily completed at your host university will be applied to your home campus degree program. Failure to secure a signed approval for how courses taken on exchange will fit into your degree requirements may delay your graduation or otherwise may not fit into your program as expected.

Programs/Majors

A listing of undergraduate majors that are offered by, and open to, NSE students is available at the Student section of nse.org. See Click Here to Select by Major. Programs of study listed at this site represent a generic classification of the multitude of undergraduate majors available at NSE members. As you search for a particular major, you will also want to examine those that may have some relationship to yours since your major may be called by a different name at another institution. It is also possible that schools may offer courses you need in your major even though they do not have the major. Consult the appropriate college catalog for complete program details. Each Member Campus Profile contains a campus-specific list of available majors as well as limitations, if any, on their access.

Semester: Quarter Exchanges

Semester means that the academic year is divided into two equal terms or sessions. Quarter means that the calendar year is divided into four equal sessions with fall, winter, and spring making up an academic year which is the equivalent of two semesters. Quarter credit hours generally earn one-third fewer credit hours than semester credit hours. Conversely, semester hours generally earn one-third more credit hours than quarter credit hours. Member campuses vary in the way that credit conversions are made between these two calendars.

If you are considering exchanging to a campus that has a calendar different from your own, an exchange for the full academic year is strongly recommended. Students who exchange for less than a full academic year from a campus on the semester calendar to one on the quarter calendar, or vice-versa, may not be able to maintain normal progress toward their degree objectives, may encounter difficulty with timely disbursement of financial aid, and may have difficulty in adjusting to the change of calendar. It is important to discuss this matter with your NSE coordinator, academic advisor, and financial aid officer during the application process.

If you attend a semester calendar campus and plan to exchange for a single term at a quarter calendar campus, you should consider an exchange for the winter and spring quarters to maximize the credits you will transfer back from your host exchange campus. If you attend a campus that uses the quarter calendar and plan to exchange for a single term at a semester calendar campus, you should consider an exchange for the fall semester to maximize the credits you will transfer back from your host exchange campus.

Other Considerations

Special Needs

If you have a physical condition for which accessible, on-campus housing or classroom accommodation might be needed; a documented disability that may require academic accommodation (e.g., note takers, taped texts); a medical condition that may require immediate attention during exchange; or a condition that might affect your emotional or mental well-being during exchange, you must consider if the environment and support services at your prospective host campus will be able to meet your special needs. Your home campus coordinator is better able to assist you if advised of your needs during the application process.

If you have not disclosed your needs during the application process, self-identification and documentation following placement (and at least two to three months prior to your actual exchange) is necessary in order for your host institution to address your needs. Documentation must be written, current, prepared by a qualified professional, and in the manner and time period required by the host institution. Consult home and host campus disability service coordinators for additional information. Failure to provide appropriate documentation in the manner and time requested could mean needed services may not be available at your host campus.

On-Campus Housing

Most NSE members have on-campus housing, but availability to NSE students is not guaranteed. Some NSE members may require or strongly encourage students to reside in on-campus facilities. Other campuses have limited on-campus housing; and a few members have no on-campus housing. If you live off campus, you do so at your own discretion and risk.

Health Insurance

NSE does not require and does not provide health insurance for exchange students. It is your responsibility, therefore, to ensure that you are adequately covered by health insurance and other insurance for the period and place of your exchange including travel between your home and host institutions. Some NSE member campuses will require proof that you have adequate health insurance, and a few will require that you purchase their health insurance regardless of having a policy of your own.

Intercollegiate Athletics

Due to the rules and regulations of the NCAA and the NAIA, it is unlikely that NSE students who currently participate in intercollegiate athletics can qualify to participate while on exchange to their host universities. This applies to all divisions of men's and women's athletics. For further information, contact the NCAA or NAIA compliance officer at your home campus.

Distance Education

On-Line Courses

The premise of NSE is that a major benefit of being on exchange is to be fully immersed in the culture and activities of the host campus. Distance education courses can have the effect of reducing your interaction with the native population and culture of the host campus. NSE expects students to be enrolled full-time (in classroom) at their host campus. Distance education courses in lieu of a full-time in-classroom enrollment status on the host campus are not permitted. Any enrollment (host or home campus) in distance education courses is over and above in-classroom host campus instruction.

Your approval to enroll in distance education offerings (which include, but are not limited to: Internet courses, televised courses, or correspondence courses) offered by your home and/or host campus at the same time you participate in the NSE program can only be determined by both of the individual institutions involved. Factors involved in such determination include, but are not limited to: the number of hours for which you are enrolled in distance courses, the number of hours you are enrolled in classroom instruction, the source of your financial aid, the NSE requirement for full-time in-classroom enrollment at your host campus, and the interpretation of such requirement as it relates to classroom vs. distance instruction by the respective campuses and the respective financial aid officers.

Some NSE host campuses do not permit enrollment in distance education classes while on exchange; and others may not have such restrictions. Where there are no restrictions, be aware that, in most cases, distance education is not covered under Plan A tuition payment and may not be covered at all under Plan B. In other words, if you do enroll in distance education courses, you are likely to incur costs over and above those that are normally included in NSE participation. Your enrollment in distance education may affect your financial aid and/or ability to reside in on-campus housing at your host campus.

Financial Matters

Tuition and Fees

The National Student Exchange utilizes two different plans for payment of tuition and fees. Your university may utilize payment Plan A, payment Plan B, or both Plan A and Plan B. If your home and host campuses offer both payment options, consider which payment plan might best meet your financial needs in conjunction with your anticipated financial aid. If your campus only offers one payment plan, that is the only plan you may use at your host campus. Whether you exchange on Plan A or Plan B, if you live in on-campus housing, you will pay room and meals directly to your host campus.

- Under Plan A, you will pay to your host campus the in-state (resident) or in-province tuition and fees directly to that campus.
- Under Plan B, you will continue to pay your normal tuition and fees to your home university. If you currently pay non-resident tuition to your home campus, you should expect to continue to do so while on exchange.

To find out how much you will pay each term to your host campus for tuition and fees on Plan A, go to the “Tuition/Fees” tab of the on-line Campus Profiles. Take note of the date these costs were last up-dated. If you plan to stay for the entire academic year at a campus on the semester calendar, multiply the costs by two. If you plan to stay for the entire academic year on a campus that uses a quarter calendar, multiply the costs by three. If you plan to attend only for the summer session, consult the host campus coordinator for summer tuition and fees.

If you are exchanging on Plan B, you will pay tuition and fees as you normally would to your home campus.

Additional Fees: Look at the “Miscellaneous Fees Per Term” under the “Tuition/Fees” tab on the Member Campus Profiles to see what additional fees you should expect to pay on Plan A and/or Plan B. Normally Plan B students pay activities, athletic, and health services fees to their home campus. In those instances where the host campus is not able to waive those fees for incoming Plan B students, you should expect to pay these fees on both your home and host campuses.

Cost Changes: Costs are subject to change without notice. Tuition and fees frequently increase each year by 5-15 percent. Costs for the coming academic year are usually not available until the summer immediately preceding the fall term. Continue to check the dates appearing next to the tuition and fees figures for the most up-to-date costs.

Course-Related Fees

Whether you participate under Plan A or Plan B, you will be expected to pay to your host campus those fees which are assessed as a condition of your enrollment in a specific course (e.g., laboratory fees, art and photography supplies, course surcharges, field studies, student teaching, internship, service learning, etc.). Consult individual institution catalogs and campus Web home pages (links at nse.org and from the Member Campus Profiles) for additional information on those costs that are course related.

Maximum Course Load

Some campuses will charge additional per credit hour fees on Plan A and/or Plan B for credits beyond what the campus considers their maximum per term course load. Make sure you check the “Maximum Credit Hours” you will be permitted to take on each plan and additional charges, if applicable. This information is under the “Tuition/Fees” tab of the Member Campus Profiles.

Room and Meals

If you live on campus at your host university, you will pay the costs for room and meals directly to the host campus, not to your home university. Housing options and meal plans vary greatly from campus to campus.

To find out how much you should expect to pay per term for room and meals, click on the “Room/Meals” tab of the on-line Member Campus Profiles. Notice the date on which these figures were last updated by the campus. If you plan to stay for the entire academic year at a campus on the semester calendar, multiply the costs by two. If you plan to stay for the entire academic year on a campus which uses a quarter calendar, multiply the costs by three.

Costs are based on the average room and meal plan selected at the campus by NSE students. Actual costs may be greater or less depending upon your selected room type and number of meals per week. Options you might choose could be higher or lower than the costs listed. Consult campus Web home pages (links at nse.org and the Member Campus Profiles) for descriptions and costs of specific room and meal plan options.

Cost Changes: Costs are subject to change without notice. Room and meal costs frequently increase each year by 5 percent or more. Costs for the coming academic year are usually not available until the summer immediately preceding the fall term. Continue to check the dates appearing next to the room and meals figures for the most up-to-date costs.

NSE Application Fee

Your home campus will assess a fee that will be due when you submit your application for exchange participation. This is an application fee and is not refundable. Your coordinator will not submit a request for placement until the fee has been paid. No refund will be given whether or not you are placed, accept or decline your placement, or withdraw or become ineligible.

Other Financial Considerations

You are encouraged to carefully review all possible expenses as well as your own personal and/or family resources for exchange. Expenses related to transportation to and from the host campus, personal expenses, and travel and sightseeing opportunities while on exchange are your responsibility. Transportation costs to the host campus can vary widely depending on the institution's accessibility to major transportation systems as well as the distance from your current place of residence.

In all likelihood, you will do more sightseeing and personal traveling in your new environment than you did at home. If you live off campus, you may incur additional costs for housing, transportation, and food. If you have been employed while attending your home campus, you may find it difficult to secure employment or may choose not to be employed while on exchange. In either case, your financial situation may undergo a change.

If you receive financial aid, remember that it is intended to pay the direct costs to the campuses involved in your exchange. Make sure your financial obligations to both your home and host campuses for tuition, fees, room, and meals are met before spending aid on other expenses.

Financial Responsibility

You are responsible for paying tuition, fees, room, meals, and all other financial obligations in accordance with stated home and host campus deadlines and policies. Failure to do so will result in the cancellation of your exchange.

Until all outstanding financial obligations have been paid, your host campus will not release a transcript; and your home university will not permit re-enrollment, issue a transcript, or award a diploma. Home and host campuses work together to resolve outstanding financial obligations.

“MY DAUGHTER PARTICIPATED IN NSE SO I WAS ABLE TO EXPERIENCE THE PROCESS AS BOTH A PARENT AS WELL AS A COORDINATOR. WHEN SHE LEFT FLINT FOR QUEENS COLLEGE IN NEW YORK, SHE WAS A SMALL TOWN GIRL; SHE CAME BACK LOVING THE BIG CITY! NSE LIT A SPARK IN HER. SHE IS NOW APPLYING FOR INTERNSHIPS, WORKING ON A RESEARCH PROJECT WITH A PROFESSOR, AND EVEN WENT TO NEW ORLEANS TO VISIT A FELLOW NSE STUDENT SHE MET WHILE ON EXCHANGE.”

Financial Aid – U.S. Students

Federally-funded financial aid may be used by eligible NSE participants enrolled at U.S. member colleges and universities. Since federal aid is based on a real budget, the amount of your award during exchange may vary from that received while attending your home university. Campuses also vary in the sources of federal aid that may be offered; and aid availability cannot be guaranteed in all programs. This, too, could result in an award different from the one you currently receive. Campuses award aid to eligible students as long as funds are available. File your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by January 31. Failure to do so may result in loss of financial aid. While on exchange, you must be enrolled full-time at your host campus. If you drop to less than full-time or withdraw from all of your classes you may be required to repay your financial aid.

Plan A

For eligible students exchanging under Plan A (in-state/in-province tuition/fees paid by the student to the host campus) federally-funded financial aid is awarded by, and disbursed from, your host campus. Federal aid programs designated under the “Financial Aid” tab of the on-line Member Campus Profiles are available to eligible NSE students as long as funds are available in each program. There is no guarantee that aid will be offered in each of the programs listed.

FAFSA: List the FAFSA code for each host campus where there is potential for being placed on Plan A. FAFSA codes for campuses that use Plan A are listed under the “Financial Aid” tab of the on-line Member Campus Profiles. Also include the FAFSA code for your home institution in case your plans change.

Plan A Exception: A few NSE members fund their own outgoing Plan A students. Your home NSE coordinator will advise you if your campus is one that utilizes this procedure. If so, apply for financial aid only at your home campus. Do not list the FAFSA code for your exchange site(s). This could result in an over-award that must be repaid. College Work Study will not be available while on exchange.

Plan B

For eligible students exchanging under Plan B (tuition/fees paid to the home campus) federally-funded financial aid is awarded by, and disbursed from, your home campus. College Work Study will not be available while on exchange.

FAFSA: List only the FAFSA code for your home campus. Do not list the FAFSA code for your exchange site(s). This could result in an over-award that must be repaid.

Exchange to Canada

Individuals planning to exchange to Canada, regardless of whether on Plan A or Plan B, file for federally-funded financial aid only at their home campuses. List only the code for your home campus on your FAFSA form.

Other Aid Sources

If you are receiving private, state-based or institutional-based grants, scholarships, or fee remissions, check with your home campus NSE coordinator and financial aid officer to determine use of such aid for exchange under Plan A or Plan B. Some forms of aid may be portable to your host institution while others may not. Also note that host NSE campuses do not award institutionally-based scholarships, grants or fee remissions to incoming exchange students.

Financial Aid – Canadian Students

Canadian students, regardless of whether exchanging under Plan A or Plan B, apply for financial assistance through their home institution as well as federal and provincial governments. Consult your campus coordinator for additional information and requirements. Failure to apply for financial aid by stated deadlines may result in loss of aid. If you are receiving private or institutional scholarships or fee remission for tuition, housing, and/or meals, check with your NSE coordinator and home campus financial aid officer to determine use of such aid for exchange under Plan A or Plan B. Some forms of aid may be portable to your host institution while others may not. Also note that host NSE campuses do not award institutionally-based scholarships, grants or fee remissions to incoming exchange students.

Killam Fellowships Program - Applications Due January 31

This program allows undergraduate students from Canada and the United States to participate in a program of binational residential exchange with a cash award of $5,000 a semester along with the opportunity to gain a broader understanding of the culture of the host country.

Exchange Options

Multicultural Opportunities

By exchanging to an institution different than your own, you have the opportunity to gain insights into the historical and cultural makeup of different regions of North America and to improve communication skills with individuals from different backgrounds. NSE offers an opportunity to make the most of your education and prepare you to live and work in a culturally-diverse society.

Special Programs

Programs of special interest for students are listed at nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/Special Programs. This site includes a general description of the program, location, duration, costs, and individuals to contact for additional information.

These programs include, but are not limited to, internships, research, service learning, field experience, and experiential learning. Programs may range from a few weeks to an academic year. Current examples of special programs include:

- Civil Rights Pilgrimage (inter-term)
- Field Experience in the Black Hills (summer)
- Geology Field Camp (summer)
- Legislative Internship in Juneau (semester)
- Marine Mammal Studies in California (summer)
- Nantucket Semester in Massachusetts
- Outdoor Skills and Leadership in Alaska (semester)
- Semester by the Sea in New York
- Service Learning Internships in Colorado (semester)
- Wilderness Research Station - Ecology, Geology and Natural History of the Rocky Mountain Ecosystems (semester)

Exchange with Canada

For the most part, exchange between U.S. and Canadian universities parallels normal NSE and campus exchange timelines and procedures. However, not all NSE members in the United States participate in Canadian exchanges. See the Exchange Sites listing in this publication to identify members that exchange with Canadian colleges and universities. Campuses that exchange with Canada are marked with a maple leaf in the Member Campus Profile listings at the Student section of nse.org.

Honors Courses and Programs

Some NSE member institutions allow NSE students to access honors courses and programs while on exchange. A list of participating campuses, individual program descriptions, and campus honors contact information are available at nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/Honors Exchange.

International Options

Many NSE colleges and universities have international or study abroad options which can be accessed through the National Student Exchange. These options require advanced planning and an additional application process. See page 28 for additional information, considerations and questions, followed by a list of international study sites. Costs for participation, language requirements, application deadlines, and a contact for more information on each site are available at nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/Study Abroad Access.

Resident Assistant Exchange

Some NSE colleges and universities facilitate the exchange of resident assistants in their institution's residence life program. This option requires advanced planning and an additional application process which is due to your home campus coordinator by December 2.

Individual campus parameters, remuneration, and a contact for more information are available at nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/RA Exchange. That site also contains an application for the RA exchange and frequently asked questions about the RA program.

Benefits of the RA exchange include continuing to serve as an RA in a new campus setting, sharing information from the home institution's residence life program, and learning about new residence life options and opportunities to share upon return to the home campus. RA exchanges are for an entire academic year. Single term assignments are not available. RA exchange participation requires:

- service as an RA on the home campus at the time of application and in the term immediately preceding exchange
- meeting all NSE eligibility requirements
- completion of NSE and RA applications
- identification of up to three potential exchange sites
- a positive letter of reference from the supervising home campus residence life hall director
- approval by your home NSE coordinator who will submit your RA application to the NSE Central Office
- an interview (usually conducted by phone) with the host campus residence life program in mid-February
- notification to the home coordinator and NSE Central Office, by the third week in February, of offers accepted or declined
- meeting the employment requirements of your host RA campus if an offer is accepted

Application

Application and Selection

Each member campus has its own application process and selects its own outgoing candidates for exchange. Minimum NSE requirements are listed on page 11. Home and host campuses, however, may impose additional criteria for exchange participation. Meeting minimum eligibility criteria and submitting an application do not guarantee your application selection or placement.

NSE participation is a privilege, not a right. Your home campus has designed an application and selection procedure to ensure that both NSE and campus standards are met. It is likely that you will be expected to provide a current transcript, letters of recommendation, goal statements for your exchange, and basic biographic data. The application is processed at your home campus and may require a personal interview. Consult your NSE home campus coordinator for details concerning the process and application deadlines on your campus.

Your home campus will assess a fee when you submit your application for exchange participation. This is an application fee and it is not refundable. Your coordinator will not submit a request for placement until the fee has been paid. No refund will be given whether or not you are placed, accept or decline your placement, or withdraw or become ineligible. Should you submit an application for exchange at another time, you may incur an additional application fee.

Once selected and placed by the home campus, NSE applicants generally are not subjected to a further selection process by their host campuses unless you have chosen academic programs requiring auditions, portfolios, or higher gpa than required by the sending campus. Information on requirements of this nature is available at the “Conditions” tab of the on-line Member Campus Profiles. Carefully review program requirements and limitations prior to submitting an application.

Program Options

Program options (such as study abroad, internships, student teaching, and resident assistant exchange) must be explored with your home coordinator eight to ten months prior to the actual exchange. These options require advanced planning, special arrangements, and, in some cases, additional application materials.

Special Needs

If you will need host campus classroom, housing, or other accommodation due to a physical challenge, learning disability, or medical condition, you are encouraged to identify yourself at the time of application for assistance in selecting an exchange site that can best meet your needs. See page 13 for additional information.

Commitment

It is important that you explore your exchange participation very carefully prior to actual placement. Select only campuses to which you are willing to exchange, including those that may be second, third, or other choices. Explore exchange participation, including financial resources, with your parents, significant others, academic advisor, and financial aid officer prior to placement, not after.

Placement

Priority Placements

March Conference

Approximately 80 percent of the requests for exchange for any part of the subsequent academic year are negotiated at the National Student Exchange Annual Placement Conference held the first week of March. Prior to the conference, each NSE coordinator will have made eligibility decisions on their outgoing applicants and entered them into a placement database.

At the conference, your placement requests will be considered by your potential host campuses in the order in which you prioritized them. Except for those campuses that can accept all eligible applicants (open), NSE coordinators vary in the ways in which they accept students to achieve balances with their own outgoing NSE student population.

There are no guarantees of acceptance. You will be accepted by only one campus. If your first choice campus is not able to accept you, your placement request will then be considered by your second choice campus and then by your third, and so on. Once a campus has accepted you, no consideration will be given by your additional campus choices.

Placement Probability: Your home campus NSE coordinator has a history of placements including individual campus placement statistics to assist you in making campus selections that will provide the best probability for placement at your preferred choices. To improve the probability for placement, you are advised to select at least three campus choices. Choosing at least one open campus (will accept all qualified applicants) using the payment plan (A or B) on which you can participate should ensure a placement.

Placement Acceptance by the Host Campus: Placement acceptances are made according to the openness of the respective tuition payment plans of the host institutions.

- Campuses that list themselves in the on-line Member Campus Profiles as open will accept all qualified applicants.
- Campuses listed as uneven will accept a few more incoming students than the number of their outgoing applicants who are placed.
- Campuses listed as even will accept incoming applicants not to exceed the number of their own outgoing applicants who are placed.
- Some campuses will accept students first from those campuses at which their own students are placed (1:1).

If none of your campus choices can accept you at the March conference, you can work with your home NSE coordinator to explore a placement at a campus remaining open after the conference.

Your Placement Acceptance

In the week following the March Conference, your home coordinator will inform you of the placement decision. You must then decide to accept or decline the placement that has been offered. If none of the campuses you selected were able to accept you, your home campus coordinator will have a list of campuses that remain open for additional placements. See Placements Post Conference below for additional information.

You accept your placement by completing and signing the Placement Acceptance Form (PAF) which identifies the host campus, exchange duration, and tuition plan for your exchange. The second page of this form identifies the conditions that govern your placement. You can view a sample PAF at nse.org/Students/Resources/Placement Acceptance Form.

Failure to sign and return the Placement Acceptance Form by the stated deadline will result in cancellation of your placement.

Direct Placements Post-Conference

Placements made after the March Annual Placement Conference are referred to as direct or post-conference placements. As a general rule, post-conference placements for the fall are not made after June 15 and those for spring should be negotiated by October 15.

Post-conference placements are governed by the availability of such placements at member campuses and are greatly reduced after the March conference. Approximately half of the NSE member colleges and universities remain open for additional incoming placements at the end of the March conference. Your home NSE coordinator will have a list of campuses that will accept post-conference placements. Make sure that the campus you select meets your academic, financial, and personal needs prior to your coordinator requesting a placement on your behalf.

The willingness to accept applications for outgoing post-conference placements and/or the ability to accept incoming post-conference placements are campus-specific decisions with campus-specific deadlines. There is no uniformity in these deadlines. Your home campus NSE coordinator has access to information about availability and deadlines of NSE members.

After Placement

Campus Detail Information

Review the Campus Detail Information (CDI) form for the campus at which you have been placed. You can link to this form from the on-line Campus Profiles. The CDI contains information on what you should expect from your host campus related to admissions materials and deadlines; registration procedures and timing; housing applications, deadlines, and deposits; billing schedules; deferment options; health records and immunization requirements; and gpa required by the host campus for continuation in the program. Note the submission date for the campus to ascertain whether or not the information is timely and up-to-date.

Maintaining Eligibility

Your placement is conditional upon your maintaining, at the end of the term immediately preceding your exchange, all eligibility requirements (academic, social and behavioral, financial) detailed on page 11 as well as any additional requirements that may have been imposed by your home or host campus. Should you fail to meet any of these requirements, you are no longer eligible to participate in the NSE program and your exchange will be cancelled. If your gpa for the term preceding exchange falls below a 2.5, your exchange may be subject to cancellation by your home coordinator even though your cumulative gpa is 2.5 or greater.

Cancellation

Should unexpected circumstances cause you to cancel your exchange plans, you must immediately provide written notification to both your home and host coordinators.

Course Approval

Prior to leaving your home campus, you must develop a written advising agreement with the assistance of your academic advisor and NSE coordinator. Select all the courses you would consider taking during your period of exchange. For flexibility, identify at least twice as many courses as you will actually take. The advising agreement should indicate where each course will fit into your home degree program. Your academic advisor or registrar should sign the form agreeing that satisfactorily completed courses will fit into your degree program in the manner determined.

You, your advisor, and your NSE campus coordinator should retain a copy of the signed agreement. A copy should also be filed in your permanent record. If you fail to complete a written advising agreement prior to exchange, your home campus may not accept the work completed at your host college or university. Any deviation from your advising agreement must be approved, in writing, by your home campus.

Enrollment Materials

Following receipt of your signed Placement Acceptance Form (PAF), your host campus coordinator, your primary contact at the host campus, will provide application, housing, registration, and other pertinent materials or information required for enrollment and registration. It is essential that you complete all forms in accordance with stated deadlines. Failure to do so will result in the cancellation of your exchange. It may also affect your ability to obtain on-campus housing, financial aid, or courses critical to maintaining academic progress. Note that procedures, forms, and timelines may be different from those of your home campus. All questions should be directed to your host campus coordinator.

Course Access and Registration

Some programs or courses may be closed, limited, or highly restricted to NSE students. Course enrollment at your host campus is based on offerings and availability and cannot be guaranteed. You must meet all course pre-requisites or co-requisites as required by your host campus. A flexible academic plan is a must.

On most campuses, registration is by Internet or mail prior to your arrival on campus. Your host campus may handle the NSE registration process using procedures, forms, and timelines different from those of your home campus. It is important that you follow instructions and deadlines provided by your host NSE coordinator. Failure to do so could result in your inability to obtain desired and appropriate courses. Some institutions may give special registration consideration to exchange students, while others cannot.

Special Needs

If you have not already identified your needs for classroom, housing, or other accommodation (i.e., physical challenges, learning disability, or medical condition) to your host campus, now is the time to do so. See page 13 for additional information.

Health and Other Insurance

It is your responsibility to ensure that you are adequately covered by health and other insurance (i.e., automobile, property) for the period and place of your exchange including travel between your home and host institutions. See page 23 for additional information.

Immunization and Medical

Most NSE members will require proof of immunization for one or more of the following: measles, rubella, meningitis, chicken pox, tuberculosis, and tetanus. For some campuses, you will not be permitted to register for classes and/or move into the residence halls without providing immunization documentation. It is your responsibility to ensure that this and any other requested medical information (i.e., health records, physical) are submitted to your host campus in a timely manner. Failure to comply will result in the cancellation of your exchange.

During Exchange

Your Host NSE Coordinator

Most NSE coordinators will schedule an orientation to familiarize exchange students with the host institution and introduce them to other NSE participants. If you arrive ahead of an orientation or one is not scheduled, take time to immediately introduce yourself to your NSE coordinator. Upon arrival, you should provide both home and host campus NSE coordinators with your host campus mailing address, phone, e-mail, and emergency contact information.

Your NSE coordinator is familiar with university policies and procedures and is the first person you should contact for any issue that may arise during your exchange. If your coordinator is unable to assist, this individual will know the appropriate personnel to address your questions or concerns.

Health Insurance

NSE does not require and does not provide health insurance for exchange students. It is your responsibility, therefore, to ensure that you are adequately covered by health insurance for the period and place of your exchange. Some NSE member campuses will require proof that you have adequate health insurance; and a few will require that you purchase their health insurance regardless of having a policy of your own.

Other Insurance

Property/Renters Insurance: If you are residing in on-campus housing, ask whether or not renter/property insurance is required or recommended. Ask what is and what is not covered. If you are living in off-campus housing, NSE strongly recommends that you be covered by renters/property insurance in order to cover yourself and your property in case of storm, fire or other circumstances. Your landlord may require such insurance. If not, it is good protection to have.

Auto Insurance: Determine how your own, or your parents', automobile insurance may cover you while you are on exchange as well as your travel to and from your host university.

Adjusting to Your New Environment

Some students have challenges in adjusting to their new academic, social, and/or regional environment. You may experience home-sickness, isolation, and disillusionment. This mental, physical, and emotional adjustment to living in a new place is referred to as culture shock. This occurs because, unconsciously, you may expect other people and situations to be just like back home. Inevitably something in the new environment will not fit a frame of reference and may not be fully comprehended or liked. Sometimes trivial differences become the most grating and may be blown out of proportion.

Keep in mind that initial discomfort is a normal part of adjusting to a new living and learning environment. Share your feelings with other exchange participants, keep an open mind, be flexible, get involved in activities, and look at the experience as a mind-stretching process that will increase your understanding of your host setting and of yourself. If you continue to feel uncomfortable in your new setting, contact your NSE coordinator for assistance.

Maintaining Exchange Eligibility

If you are exchanging for a full academic year, your home and host coordinators will inform you of the gpa you will be required to obtain in order to remain eligible to continue in the NSE program from one term to the next. These requirements may be different between your home and host institutions. The requirement may also be different from your host or home institution's normal academic retention standards. It is your responsibility to know what will be expected of you as an NSE participant to maintain program eligibility.

Full-Time In-Classroom Enrollment

You must be enrolled full-time in-classroom at your host campus. Distance education (on-line) courses cannot be combined with in-classroom courses to satisfy the requirement for full-time enrollment. Dropping to less than full time in-classroom enrollment has consequences for maintaining academic progress, financial aid, and your ability to remain in on-campus housing. If you had planned on a full academic year exchange, dropping to less than full-time in the first term is likely to cancel your enrollment at the host campus for subsequent terms.

Rules and Regulations

While on exchange, you are governed by the Conditions of Placement as outlined on the Placement Acceptance Form you signed. You are also governed by the rules and regulations of your host college or university. You will be subject to academic standards; residence hall rules, regulations, and contractual obligations; financial obligations and payment deadlines; course registration and withdrawal schedules; and codes of social/behavioral conduct. These regulations may be different than those of your home campus.

Information on university rules and regulations may be found in the university catalog, schedule of classes, student handbook, campus Web site, and other information as provided by the host campus and your host NSE coordinator. It is your responsibility to know host campus rules and regulations and abide by them. Students who are in violation of host campus policies should expect the same consequences or disciplinary action as students who are native to the host campus. Further action, including cancellation of your exchange, may also be taken by your host and/or home campus.

You are governed by the local, state, territorial, or provincial laws of the location of your exchange. It is your responsibility to inform yourself and to conduct yourself in a manner that complies with those laws.

See Next Page

Personal Safety

While on exchange, you are responsible for acting prudently and exercising caution and common sense at all times. Take time to learn about your new environment and familiarize yourself with campus and neighborhood surroundings. Heed the safety advice provided by your host campus coordinator, residence life staff, and others familiar with your environment. Inform your parents, guardians, spouse, or significant other of how to reach you and your NSE coordinator. Maintain regular contact with those back home.

Crisis Awareness

If an extreme weather (e.g., hurricane, flood, earthquake, tornado, etc.) or other emergency situation (e.g., pandemic, strike, fire, protest) arises while you are on exchange, follow the instructions provided by your NSE coordinator and the appropriate safety and student services personnel on your host campus. Advise your parents, guardians, spouse, or significant other of the nature of the emergency and periodically reassure them of your safety.

Financial Responsibility

You are expected to pay tuition, fees, room, meals, and other financial obligations in accordance with stated home and host campus deadlines. Failure to make full payment of all required fees or to resolve other debts to the home or host institution will result in the cancellation of your exchange.

Until all outstanding financial obligations have been paid, your host campus will not release a transcript; and your home university will not permit re-enrollment, issue a transcript, or award a diploma. Home and host campuses work together to resolve outstanding financial obligations.

Host Campus Transcript

It is your responsibility to request that an official transcript from your host campus be sent to the appropriate office at your home campus at the end of each term of your exchange. Posting of the host campus work on your home campus permanent record completes your exchange agreement. If a transcript is not sent to your home campus, your permanent record at the home campus is incomplete with consequences that may affect subsequent financial aid, registration, graduation, and requests for future home campus transcripts.

Procedures for Canadian Exchange

The basic process for arranging an exchange between U.S. and Canadian colleges and universities is the same as any other NSE exchange with the exception of the items listed below.

Participating U.S. Campuses

Most, but not all, U.S. colleges and universities exchange with member campuses in Canada. The Exchange Sites listing on pages 5-9 as well as the on-line Member Campus Profiles identify those campuses that exchange with Canada.

Costs

Tuition, fees, room, and meal costs identified on the Member Campus Profiles for institutions within the United States are in U.S. dollars. Tuition, fees, room and meal costs identified on the Profiles for Canadian universities are in Canadian dollars. Costs are listed with a date indicating the last time these costs were up-dated by the campus. Costs are subject to change without notice and will increase from the time of your application to your actual exchange. Use an on-line currency converter to calculate the rate of exchange.

Financial Aid

Whether you are exchanging from the United States to Canada or from Canada to the United States, all financial aid will be awarded by, and disbursed from, your home institution regardless of whether the exchange is made on Plan A or Plan B.

Killam Fellowships - Apply by January 31

This program allows undergraduate students from Canada and the United States to participate in a program of binational residential exchange with a cash award of $5,000 a semester along with a competitive health benefits package and the opportunity to participate in academic and cultural programs in other regions of the host country outside of the host campus city.

<http://www.killamfellowships.com/>

Crossing the Border

Whether you are exchanging to or from Canada, to limit potential for delay at the U.S./Canadian border or Port of Entry, NSE strongly encourages that you schedule your arrival during weekday business hours. Prior to departure, request the names and contact information for both the NSE coordinator and the international contact (if different from your NSE coordinator) at your host university and a phone number where these individuals can be reached 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If coming from Canada to the United States, make sure you have the emergency contact number for your host university's Designated School Official (DSO), Alternate Responsible Officer (ARO), or designee.

To Canada From the United States

Language Proficiency

Canada has two official languages: English and French. All NSE members in Canada, except those noted below, are English-speaking. Students for whom English is not their first language may be asked to demonstrate English proficiency through submission of TOEFL or other test scores. The language of instruction at the Université de Montréal, the Université de Sherbrooke, and the Université du Québec à Montréal is French. Prior to placement, you must demonstrate French proficiency at your home institution. Additional proficiency testing may be required by your host university. The Université de Sherbrooke offers a French as a Second Language program which does not require language proficiency. Contact the NSE coordinator at Sherbrooke for additional information.

Process

Your host Canadian university will provide a letter of acceptance and detailed instructions regarding the Canadian entry process. Timely completion of forms is essential.

A Study Permit is required if you plan to exchange to Canada for more than six months and/or intend to seek employment on campus while on exchange. U.S. citizens and permanent U.S. residents apply for a Study Permit either through a Canadian visa office or at a Port of Entry upon arrival at the Canadian border. If at the Port of Entry, complete your application ahead of time and bring all supporting documents with you. If the application is made through the Visa Office, and is approved, a letter of introduction is issued which you must then present at the Port of Entry in order to receive the Study Permit. International students studying in the U.S. who wish to study in Canada must apply to a Canadian Immigration representative in the U.S. for a Study Permit and, in many cases, an entry visa/Temporary Resident Visa (TRV). U.S. citizens and permanent U.S. residents must provide a valid passport. Students from anywhere else should check with the consulate regarding additional documentation.

In order to be eligible for a Study Permit, you must prove that you have enough money to pay for your tuition, fees, living expenses, and return transportation. You must demonstrate proof of health insurance that is applicable in Canada; be a law-abiding citizen with no criminal record; not be a risk to the security of Canada; be in good health and be willing to undergo a medical examination if necessary; and satisfy an immigration officer that you will leave Canada at the end of your authorized stay. The current cost for the Study Permit is $150 Canadian. This cost is subject to change without notice.

<http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/study/index.asp>

Study in Quebec

If you are exchanging to NSE members in the province of Quebec, you must first obtain the Certificat d'acceptation du Québec/Quebec Certificate of Acceptance (CAQ) prior to applying for the Canadian Study Permit. The current fee for the CAQ is $110 Canadian. The cost is subject to change without notice. Follow directions provided by your Quebec host university regarding applying for the CAQ. Plan on at least six weeks following application to obtain the CAQ.

<http://www.immigration-quebec.gouv.qc.ca/en/immigrate-settle/students/index.html>

Age of Majority

In Canada, each province and territory decides the age of majority; in some cases it is 18, and others 19. Anyone under the age of majority is considered a "minor child." If you are planning an exchange to Canada and would be considered a minor by Canadian law, you will need to have a custodian in Canada.

<http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/study/study-minors.asp>

Health Insurance

You must provide proof of health insurance coverage in order to study in Canada. If your health insurance is not applicable in Canada, your host Canadian university will require that you purchase health insurance either through their institution or a private carrier. A Canadian member may require that you purchase insurance from their campus regardless of other health insurance that may be in force.

Working While in Canada

You must go to Canada with enough money to live and pay your bills while you are studying, without needing to work. In certain situations, you may be able to work on campus while studying to earn additional expense money. A Study Permit is required (see above) as is full-time enrollment if you intend to seek on-campus employment while on exchange. For additional information, contact the Canadian NSE coordinator and read the web site indicated below. Off campus employment is not permitted for exchange students.

<http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/study/work.asp>

Criminal Charges/Convictions

Students with criminal charges or convictions could be prohibited from entering Canada. Such charges include, but are not limited to: theft, assault, manslaughter, dangerous driving, driving while under the influence of drugs or alcohol, and possession of or trafficking in drugs or controlled substances.

<http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/information/inadmissibility/conviction.asp>

To the United States From Canada

Language Proficiency

All NSE members in the United States and its territories, with the exception of the colleges and universities in Puerto Rico, are English-speaking. Students for whom English is not their first language may be asked to demonstrate English proficiency through submission of TOEFL or other test scores.

The language of instruction at all NSE members in Puerto Rico is Spanish. Students exchanging to NSE campuses in Puerto Rico must demonstrate Spanish proficiency on their home campus preferably through an interview with a faculty member or administrator whose first language is Spanish.

SEVIS Fee

You will pay a SEVIS (Student and Exchange Visitor Information System) fee of $180 for J-1 status or $200 for F-1 status. This cost is subject to change without notice. Unless otherwise directed by your host campus, you will pay the SEVIS I-901 fee directly to SEVP (Student and Exchange Visitor Program). Ask your NSE designated international contact the payment procedure that will be required of you. Some NSE member institutions may assess an additional fee (SEVIS administrative fee) to support their own institution's student exchange visitor office and automated reporting systems.

<https://www.fmjfee.com/>
<https://www.ice.gov/sevis/i901>

Process

In most cases, Canadian citizens exchanging from a university in Canada to an NSE member in the United States will be processed by their host U.S. campus using the J-1 exchange visitor status. Some NSE campuses, however, may utilize the F-1 student status. Appropriate application forms and information on required documentation will be supplied by your NSE host university in the United States.

At the U.S./Canadian border or at the Port of Entry, you will need to provide the following: a Canadian passport, the original DS 2019 certificate (J-1 status) or Form I-20 (F-1 status), proof that the SEVIS fee has been paid, proof of ability to pay university fees and living expenses while in the United States, and proof of ties to Canada.

You may also be asked for evidence of your student status (e.g., recent tuition receipt and transcripts), a letter of acceptance from your host university, and the name and contact information for your Designated School Official (DSO) for entry under the F-1 status or Alternate Responsible Officer (ARO) for entry under the J-1 status, including a 24-hour emergency contact number at your host campus. Most NSE member colleges and universities will require that you purchase health insurance from their institutions.

Upon your admission to the United States at a port of entry, you will be issued a Form I-94 which indicates the terms of your admission, including your legal status, length of time you may stay, and expected departure date. If you enter the country at an air or sea port of entry, Form I-94 is issued electronically. A paper Form I-94 is issued to those entering the country by land. It is important to maintain a copy of your Form I-94 to prove your legal visa status in the United States.

Non-Canadian citizens exchanging from Canada to the United States will need to make an appointment for a visa interview at a U.S. consulate or embassy. Ask your home campus NSE coordinator to check with your host NSE campus coordinator regarding procedures prior to requesting a placement.

<http://www.ice.gov/sevis/>
<https://studyinthestates.dhs.gov/2014/08/what-is-the-form-i-94>

Health Insurance

Exchange visitors (J-1 status) are required to have health insurance for the duration of their exchange program. At minimum, insurance coverage must include medical benefits of at least $100,000 per person, per accident or illness; repatriation of remains in the amount of $25,000; and expenses associated with medical evacuation in the amount of $50,000. Per accident or illness deductibles cannot exceed $500. Contact the NSE coordinator or designated international programs contact at the NSE host campus prior to purchasing insurance as some NSE member campuses will require that you purchase through their institutions.

Working While in the U.S.

You must come to the United States with enough money to live and pay your bills while you are studying, without needing to work. Visa regulations allow on-campus employment. Off campus work authorization may not be possible. For further information, talk to your host campus Designated School Official (DSO) for entry under the F-1 program or Alternate Responsible Officer (ARO) for entry under the J-1 program.

Access to International Programs

Program Access

Some NSE colleges and universities offer international/study abroad programs that can be accessed through the National Student Exchange. NSE lists these study abroad opportunities as a service to our member institutions and to interested students. NSE accepts no responsibility or liability for the quality of programs listed or the services provided.

nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/Study Abroad Access/International Exchange Sites

Programs listed by member universities are open to NSE students under the following conditions:

- You should investigate these options 8-10 months prior to participation.
- Space may be competitive and limited.
- You must inform your home NSE coordinator of your intention to participate in an international program through your host campus.
- You must meet the eligibility requirements of both the NSE program and the host institution's study abroad program.
- You must submit an NSE application to your home NSE coordinator and also submit to the host campus International Programs' office the application for the particular international program in which you plan to participate.
- International program deadlines may be earlier than deadlines for NSE.
- Placement at an NSE campus does not guarantee participation in the host institution's international program.

Participation in study abroad programs requires advanced planning, special arrangements, and payment over and above normal tuition/fees. Some programs are offered on a space-available basis only; and others are competitive. Placement in programs may be restricted.

- Some campuses allow NSE students to apply for their international programs from their home campus. This access is referred to as direct.
- Other host campuses require physical attendance as an NSE student for one term. While on the host campus, as part of the NSE program, you can then apply for participation in the institution's international program(s). This access is referred to as host enroll.

In addition to tuition, students participating in international programs will incur expenses for program fees, transportation, room, meals, and incidentals. Personal finances as well as availability and portability of financial aid must be carefully explored.

Questions to Ask

Request program information and application materials from the international programs office of the campus sponsoring the study abroad program of interest. After you have reviewed the program materials, below are a few questions to ask the host campus about each study abroad option under consideration.

Application Process

Will I be considered with other applicants from your campus, or will I be eligible only for unfilled places?

Cost

- Is NSE the best and least expensive way to access the international program?
- To which campus (home: Plan B; or host: Plan A) will I pay my tuition? If Plan A, are there additional related tuition costs associated with the program?
- What are all the other costs associated with program participation (e.g., application fees, program fees, transportation, room, meals incidentals, health insurance, and other)?
- What other costs should I anticipate?
- Can my financial aid (federal, state, provincial, institutional, and/or private) be utilized for international program participation? Your home NSE coordinator and/or financial aid officer are the best resources for this information.

Pre-approval of Courses

Can I obtain course descriptions for pre-approval by my home campus?

Program Support

- What kind of program support and supervision is offered by the sponsoring campus both home and abroad? Is it sufficient to meet my needs?
- What kind of pre-departure orientation is scheduled? And, where will it be held?
- Does the program include insurance? If so, what does it cover (e.g., emergency medical care, routine medical care, medical evacuation, repatriation of remains, and other) and for what cost?

Transcripts

- Who is going to issue my transcript?
- Will all the course work (with titles, credit hours, and grades) I take at the international site appear on the transcript of the sponsoring NSE host campus? This method of transcripting is strongly recommended by NSE.
- Must I have the transcript from my international site evaluated by an independent agency? If the answer to this question is yes, NSE recommends you do not pursue exchange at this site.

For More Information

See nse.org/Students/Exchange Options/Study Abroad Access for the most current information on international program options. For each program, this site lists requirements for participation including language, cost, duration, application procedures, deadlines, and the contact person at the international programs office at the sponsoring host campus.

Personal Health and Safety Considerations

- Consult your physician regarding personal health issues.
- Consider if you have any medical condition which might require immediate medical attention during your exchange.
- Consider if you have any conditions that may affect your emotional or mental well-being during your exchange.
- Consider if you have any physical condition or documented disability for which you will need accessible on-campus housing and/or classroom accommodation. Note: The Americans with Disabilities ACT (ADA) lacks jurisdiction for U.S. citizens with disabilities when they exchange to places that are not physically within the United States.
- Contact the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) regarding information on health issues specific to your intended location.
- Contact the embassy or consulate of each country you plan to visit for visa and travel information.
- Contact the U.S. State Department regarding information on safety and travel to and within your selected location.
- Familiarize yourself with the local laws and customs of your intended exchange site.
- Consider purchasing insurance which includes travel, major medical, emergency assistance, and repatriation of remains. All or some of these may be required as a condition for international exchange participation.

Health and Safety Resources for Study Abroad

The Center for Global Education

Features a Study Abroad Safety Handbook (How to Get There...And Back) which raises questions about investigating study abroad programs, travel planning, basic health and safety issues, risk factors, how foreign laws apply to U.S. citizens, advice for parents, emergency planning, and tips on dealing with cultural differences. The site also links to other on-line study abroad resources.

EXCHANGE CHECKLIST

PRIOR TO PLACEMENT

- Read this publication to learn about NSE policies and procedures.
- Read your home campus policies and procedures.
- Select five to ten campuses of interest to you.
- Research exchange options by reviewing Campus Profiles at the Students tab on www.nse.org.
- Consult your NSE coordinator and academic advisor to identify appropriate exchange options.
A flexible academic plan is a must for exchange participation.
- Discuss NSE participation with family, friends, parents, and former exchange participants.
- Determine if your financial resources are sufficient.
- Complete your home campus NSE application and pay the NSE application fee.
- Consult with your home campus financial aid office to ascertain your needs for the exchange term(s).
Refer to information in this publication for policies governing U.S. federally-funded aid application and disbursement.
- By January 31, file FAFSA for U.S. federally-funded financial aid. List on FAFSA the campus codes for all campuses at which you have the potential to be placed on Plan A. List your home campus as well.
- Consult your NSE coordinator to prioritize campus options for exchange.

AFTER PLACEMENT

- Read, sign, and return the Placement Acceptance Form to your home coordinator.
- Download your host institution's Campus Detail Information and Campus Budgets from the Resources button at the Students tab on www.nse.org.
- Read all information sent by your host coordinator and meet all specified deadlines. Failure to complete forms and meet stated deadlines may result in the cancellation of your exchange. It may also affect your ability to obtain on-campus housing, financial aid, and courses critical to maintaining academic progress. Note that procedures, forms, and timelines may be different from those of your home campus.
- Complete the host campus application for on-campus housing.
- Submit transcripts to your host campus coordinator.
- Submit health and immunization records as requested by your host campus coordinator.
- Complete an advising agreement governing how host campus courses will be accepted by your home campus.
- Consult your home campus financial aid office, if exchanging under Plan B, to arrange for disbursement of aid while on exchange.
- Register for classes at the host campus.
- Inform both home and host coordinators of your summer phone number, e-mail, and mailing address.
- Pay tuition and fees to the home campus if exchanging under Plan B. Keep a copy of the receipt for your host coordinator.

DURING EXCHANGE

- Pay resident (in-state/in-province) tuition/fees to the host campus if exchanging under Plan A.
- Pay your host campus for room and meals if residing on campus.
- Notify host coordinator when you arrive on campus and inform the coordinator of your phone number, e-mail, and mailing address.
- Inform parents, guardians, families, etc. of your host campus address, phone, e-mail, and emergency contact information.
- Read university rules and regulations in the university catalog, student handbook, and other information provided by your host coordinator.
While on exchange, you are governed by the rules and regulations (academic, social/behavioral, and financial) of your host college or university.
- Accept responsibility for your own decisions and actions while on exchange.
- Attend NSE orientation sessions.
- Inform your home campus coordinator of your host campus phone number, e-mail, mailing address, and emergency contact.
- In case of emergency, follow instructions provided by your NSE coordinator and the appropriate safety and student services personnel at your host campus.

PREPARING TO RETURN TO THE HOME CAMPUS

- Complete home campus re-admission (re-entry) forms, if required.
- Contact your home campus financial aid office to ascertain needs for the coming year.
- Apply for financial aid.
- Complete home campus registration and housing materials.
- Pay all outstanding bills to your host campus. Transcripts will not be released by the host campus, and registration will be blocked by your home campus, until all financial obligations are satisfied.
- Contact host campus records office to request that transcripts be forwarded to your home campus.
- Inform your home coordinator of your summer phone number, e-mail, and mailing address.
- Visit with home and host coordinators to evaluate the exchange experience.
- Verify that work completed at the host campus has been entered on your home campus permanent record.
